Dear Mary,

Relet 2, I wish you were here, too. I'm nailed down tightly by Lil's leg and I think she'd welcome a face other than mine. However, the swelling seems to be going down and I hope she'll soon be able to put some weight on the leg. I've been expecting a call from the doctor since Friday, when I phoned as he'd instructed, only to learn what he didn't know on Tuesday, that Friday was his day off. He was due in the office at noon today, got there, and got called to the hospital emergency room immediately, so he hasn't returned my call. And it took me an hour to get through!.

The pool does not require leaf-dipping but mud-filtering. Had to empty it in the fall for repairs, filled it from the pond, and it is brown! Filter working full-time but I haven't been able to check it today yet.

Strange coincidence about Montgomery. Made a note to check when I get to that one. I've put all these in separate files by CD #.

Howard was here most of two weeks, leaving this a.m.

Hope your reunion with Buck was as cheerful as it should have been!

Little else new. Glad to hear Arch is well enough to be out, whether or not robust. That can come in time. That he's alive is the blessing.

Best to all,
